HERE AND THERE.

Huron county is said to be infested with hog cholera.

The Senior class of the Mariette high school is working on an annual.

The Almont Herald is getting on it passed the 41st milestone recently.

W. F. Chapman & Son of Algonac have the contract to rebuild the White Star Line dock in Port Huron.

The directors of the Inlay City Agricultural Society have chosen the dates for next fall's fair on Oct. 3 to 6.

David Jack, an old resident of Sandusky, died at his home near Argyll last week, being nearly 90 years of age.

Mrs. Onora Smith, of Sandusky, living alone, was found dead in bed one morning last week, death due from gas poisoning.

The proceeds of a party given in Lexington last Monday evening at the Opera house, will be used on village improvements.

Rev. N. K. Tully, a seminary student who will graduate this spring, has been invited to become pastor of the Presbyterian church in Grosve.

An effort will be made to secure a postoffice for the new little town of Watertown on the Handy Bros. railroad between Sandusky and Peck.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Beauvais, jr., of Anchorville, announce the arrival of their ninth son. They have also six daughters, all fifteen children living.

T. T. Crandall, of the hardware firm of Crandall & Walker, of Inlay City, died very suddenly last week after only a few hours' illness with pneumonia.

The Mariette Leader says: "We would like to see a few of the folks in this town organize a branch of the League of the kindly tongue." Same here.

The class officers in St. Clair high school have in charge the organization of a students' council, which is to constitute the governing body of the school in the future.

A project is on foot to connect the towns of North Branch and Brown City with a state reward highway. The farmers along the proposed road are highly interested.

It is reported that a recruiting station will be established on Walpole island and a detachment of Canadian troops sent there to train and drill the recruits in the spring.

Willard J. Fritz, who has been rural carrier on Route 3, Inlay City, for nearly fourteen years, has now the position of assistant postmaster in place of Harry Lineker, resigned.

It is currently reported that a mile of lake front has been purchased at the mouth of the Clinton river near Mt. Clemens, by the Joy Realty Company, and an aeroplane factory will be built.

A St. Clair boy in Saskatchewan writes to his mother, Mrs. E. C. Recor, that the thermometer was 70 degrees below zero for two days. We Michigan people can't complain, or shouldn't, of the cold.

Ed Simmons of Lexington, is not only an excellent blacksmith, a good hunter and a fine marksman, but is also a mechanic, having manufactured a shotgun which is guaranteed to shoot accurately.

GET TO THE CAUSE

Yale People Are Learning the Way.

There is but little peace or comfort for the man or woman with a bad back. The distress begins in early morning—keeps up throughout the day. It's hard to get out of bed, it's torture to stoop or straighten. Plasters and liniments may relieve, but cannot cure it the cause is inside—the kidneys. When suffering so, use Doan's Kidney Pills, the tested and proven kidney remedy, used in kidney troubles for over 50 years. Doan's Kidney Pills are recommended by thousands of just such cases. Proof of their effectiveness in the testimony of this Yale resident:

A. McLarty, farmer, R. F. D. No. 2, Yale, Mich., says: "I was a constant sufferer from backache and sharp twinges through my loins. I had headaches and dizzy spells, my relief was poor. Nothing brought me relief until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Grant Holden's Drug Store. The first box benefited me and I was so pleased that I continued their use. Four boxes drove away all the kidney trouble and my health has improved steadily since I give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit of making a complete cure."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. McLarty had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. Adv.

Blind Death

By M. QUAD

[Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.]

We were hunting among the Black Hills soon after the first rush of homesteaders and speculators in that direction, and one day I left camp on my own hook and wandered away three or four miles. As I stood resting beside a tree I saw a deer only a pistol shot away. It was a fine buck, and he walked into the open as cool and unconcerned as if nobody had ever thirsted for his life.

I ought to have dropped him dead at that distance, but he fell at my fire to get up and limp away, and, knowing him to be mortally wounded, I followed after. The ground was very rough and covered with cedar thickets, and, being a bit excited, I pushed on as fast as possible and paid little heed of what was underfoot. Of a sudden I found myself falling, and as I went down I dropped my gun to clutch at the branches. I went down ten or twelve feet over rocks, struck on my feet and then plunged forward and brought up beside a big detached rock with a smash severe enough to have killed me outright. I did break two ribs and terribly bruise my hip and fainted away with the pain.

When I came to I was lying on my right side, facing the jungle of rocks over which I had fallen, and I realized at once that I was badly hurt—just how badly I hesitated to find out, remembering that I was miles away from camp and could expect no help. I lay quiet, hoping the pains would soon go away, when I got such a shock as nearly put my wits to sleep again. Almost in front of me and only twenty-five feet away was the mouth of a den in the face of the cliff, and out of this den stalked the largest panther I had ever seen. He stood snuffing the air and looking full at me, and when I realized how helpless I was even to utter a call for aid I almost lost consciousness.

The wind was blowing pretty freely, and, luckily for me, it blew toward me. At first this was not of the slightest importance to my mind, as the beast could reach me with one spring, but I soon had reason to conclude that he was a queer animal. He turned to the left and trotted over the ground a distance of about fifty feet; then he wheeled and passed the den by about the same distance. When he had gone over the beat two or three times I discovered what was the matter. As he came toward me the sun shone full in his face, and I saw that he was stone blind. There was a white film over each eye, and he could not have seen a tree in his path.

Disense or accident had blinded him, but he possessed every other power nature gives to the dreaded beast—grace, litheness, strength—death!

There is a curious fascination in watching the beast as he takes his promenade. I forget my pains as I rejoice over his blindness. Had he been possessed of his erstwhile vision—aye, could he but see ever so little—he would spring upon me, fasten those long yellow fangs into my throat, and in thirty seconds all would be over. But he is blind. He cannot discover my presence if I remain quiet.

Heaven save me!

A shift of the wind, which here circles around and eddies about, has carried him the scent. He stops midway in his promenade, rears up and sniffs the air with a savage growl, and my heart beats so that it seems he must surely hear it and follow the sound until his hot breath is on my face.

Sniff! Sniff! Growl! To the right, to the left, straight ahead!

There; he's lost it as the wind eddies about, and now he stands stock still and utters a continuous growl as he waits to catch it again. No, not like a statue. His long tail sweeps the ground in a half circle, and his ears work swiftly back and forth. Blind Death waiting to rend, bite, tear and kill!

The scent again. He rears up, whirls about three or four times as if on pivot, and now he points full at me. A tapeline fifteen feet long would cover the distance between us—between where I lie helpless as he crouches for a spring. If those sightless eyes could be restored how they would glint and glitter and blaze.

Growl! Growl! W-r-r-r!

There's something in the sound which chills my blood—a menace, a warning of what is to come which bids me shut my eyes and utter a last prayer. Why does he hesitate? What delayed his spring? Ah, the wind has shifted again, and now his infirmity reasons against his natural ferocity. He has been blind for a year or two, perhaps. He has never left the cave except to move up and down over that one route. If he leaves it, if he springs at me, he may fall over a cliff for all he can tell. Had the scent held a moment longer he might have attacked, but now the breeze freshens up, the leaves around him are blown hither, and he is seeming to argue that his quarry has passed on and is out of his reach. Blind Death crept back to his cave and entered it with mutterings of savage disappointment.

Well for me that his mate was not home and did not return until I had managed to drag myself out of the neighborhood and secure assistance to reach camp. Had there been eyes to see me Blind Death might now be flinging my cracked and whitened bones about his dark den as he rolls himself in sportive mood.

BUSINESS IS BASED ON CONFIDENCE

A Theory Put Into Practice by Well Known Business Man

J. C. BRADY

"A druggist has many opportunities to make lasting friends of his customers," said Mr. J. C. Brady, popular Rexall Pharmacist of Fall River, Mass. "The very nature of his business draws their confidence for little helpful suggestions on the matter of health. Many people have thanked me for recommending Rexall Orderlies as the best relief for constipation and its resultant ills. Put up in dainty candy tablet form, they are pleasant to the taste and make an ideal laxative for the home—for men, women and children alike."
